A Better Benefits Experience.

Are Your Employees “Quiet Quitting”?

Focus: And Is Quit Quitting Real?

This latest HR phenomenon went mainstream after starting as a viral post on TikTok. Quiet quitting is where employees do the bare minimum work and set high boundaries against management. According to new research from Gallup, 50% of employees polled described themselves as “not engaged” (or do the minimum required and are psychologically detached from their job).

Quiet quitters are not trying to lose their jobs, but want to focus more of their time on non-work activities through stricter work-life boundaries. Join us, as our guest speaker Kecia Hanson from the California Employers Association provides guidance on navigating this “employee vs management” tension to re-engage your underperforming employees and inspire them to perform.

By attending you’ll learn:

- ▶ The 3 levels of engagement
- ▶ Signs of an actively “disengaged” employee
- ▶ 8 ways to avoid “quiet quitting” on your team
- ▶ Practical tips to hold everyone accountable
- ▶ BONUS - Bring employees back to the office

In-person learning and breakfast seminar (webinar option available)
